About me

Graduated in Visual Arts and Technologies. I am a curious person, open to new knowledge and skills, constantly seeking learning opportunities to stay updated and improve my professional performance. Falling in love with web design, I took a course on front-end development at EDIT school.

Currently, my focus is to enter the workforce as a front-end developer, where I can apply my skills in a collaborative and challenging work environment, contributing to the team and company's success with creative and effective solutions.
